

Disclaimer: Risks associated with investing in cryptocurrencies/digital assets

Attention!

This is a general summary of certain risks associated with investing in cryptocurrencies/digital assets. It is for informational and educational purposes and has not been tailored for any specific investor, situation or investment.

Transactive Systems is not an investment advisor, financial advisor, trustee or other fiduciary, and does not provide legal, tax, investment, accounting or financial advice.

By investing into cryptocurrencies, an investor assumes risks, such as:

- ✓ Cryptocurrencies/digital asset investments may lose all value.
- ✓ Digital asset investments such as digital currencies may be subject to legislative and regulatory changes or actions at the Country/State/Federal or International level which may adversely affect the use, transfer, exchange and value of digital/crypto assets.
- ✓ Cryptocurrencies/digital assets markets and exchanges are not regulated with the same controls or customer protections available in equity, option, futures, or foreign exchange investing.
- ✓ Transactions in cryptocurrencies/digital asset investments may be irreversible, and, accordingly, losses due to fraudulent or accidental transactions may not be recoverable.

Attention to customers of crypto.com

In order to reduce the negative impact of errors in the providing of payment instructions by their customers and to increase protection against possible fraud, crypto.com has opened a special account dedicated to the acceptance of payments from its customers.

As per Article 7.1 of the General Terms and Conditions that customers have with crypto.com, please note that the owner of this special account is crypto.com itself, therefore customers of crypto.com will not be able to log in to this account or receive information about the movement of funds in this account. For information on the payments you have made, please contact crypto.com as Transactive Systems does not provide information on third party accounts.